A proposal to transport foreign liquefied natural gas (LNG) through coastal ports to supply out-of-state markets is currently putting Oregonians at risk. Causing huge impacts to the fishing grounds at the mouth of the Columbia River, intercepting family farms, and clearcutting through the forests and waters of Mt. Hood National Forest, a groundswell of resistance has grown and now all we need is you! Hike along the proposed Palomar pipeline route as we document and defend the remaining forests of Mt. Hood as they stand today.
